

Camino a Casa Giving Guide

Make home a place of hope and opportunity

The Global Refuge Camino a Casa program supports young people from Central America and Mexico who are returned home after seeking refuge in the United States. Through personalized care, job training, education, mental health services, and more, we help each youth find their own path to success, right at home.

With tighter U.S. immigration restrictions and rising deportations, more youth are arriving home with few resources and even fewer opportunities. The demand for our services is growing exponentially—and we need the support of our loyal donors to fill the needs of youth and their families.

A Global Refuge team member delivers chickens to a young client and his family to support long-term food security.
